

QUESTIONS TO KEEP IN MIND AS YOU READ

Having a specific question you wish to answer is a great way to get more out of your readings because it forces you to learn actively. However, sometimes our readings lack fancy HEADINGS to turn into questions or our instructors don't provide us with any.

Never fear. Here are some great questions to keep in mind as you read. And when you find the information that answers them... WRITE IT DOWN.

Please. You will remember so much more.

These questions also force us to start thinking at a higher level such as critically and analytically.

Here are the questions:

1. What is the thesis? That is, what is the main argument of your reading?
2. How does the author support their thesis?
3. What kinds of evidence do they use?
4. What are the strengths and weaknesses?
5. How well does the author support their argument?
