

Citation Apps at a Glance

RefMe is all around useful app to help you manage bibliographies and create citations for multiple projects. Scan the ISBN of a book for instant references or search the apps database manually to find the information you need to properly cite sources in MLA, APA, Chicago and many more popular styles. This app generated the most detailed citations.

EasyBib is a basic referencing app and allows you to scan ISBN barcodes or manually search for reference information. Good for light use and includes MLA, APA, Chicago and many more popular styles.

Cite This for Me is a good app to help you manage bibliographic information for multiple projects. ISBN scanner makes finding the information quick and easy. Also provides a search engine to manually look up the information and includes MLA, APA, Chicago and many other styles. This app did not generate information that was as detailed as the others but still works moderately well.
